Bombers Leave Big Fires In Both Saarbruecken And Nuernberg

LONDON, Aug. 29—(AP)—United States army air force Flying Fortresses bombed a German airdrome at Wevelghem, near Courtrai, Belgium, today.

The Fortresses were escorted by fighters, a joint communique said.

All aircraft in the operations, which included diversionary sweeps by American fighters, returned safely.

LONDON, Aug. 29—(AP)—Nuernberg, a great war industries center and the rally-ground of Hitler's nazi party, and the Saar steel center of Saarbruecken were attacked heavily by a strong force of British bombers which left large fires burning in both cities last night.

The heaviest assault was on Nuernberg, the air ministry said. Thirty bombers were lost from the "large force" of perhaps several hundred, many of which packed eight tons of explosives each.

Objectives in northern France were raided by the smaller and swifter fighters during the night.

The heavy bombers used the "saturation" technique of attack by which great numbers of bombers crowd into the air space over their targets.

Hundreds Of Bombers

LONDON, Aug. 29—(INS)—Hundreds of British night bombers blasted two more reich industrial centers in the mounting aerial offensive against Germany, the air ministry disclosed today with the announcement that Nuernberg and Saarbrucken were attacked in force.

Berlin acknowledged the raids and claimed that 36 bombers were shot down, indicating that a force of 600 to 700 planes were over the German industrial area for the second successive night. Nuernberg is 200 miles to the hold of the nazi party and scene of nazi gatherings and momentous addresses by Adolf Hitler, has been converted into a war production center since the war lords took over Germany.

The targets there were the great tank factory, aluminum

Youth Killed By Lightning Bolt

INDIANOLA, Neb., Aug. 29—(AP) — Twelve-year-old Teddy Suiter was killed yesterday when struck by a bolt of lightning during a storm while he was riding a pony across a pasture of an uncle's nearby farm.

A trucker passing on a highway near the scene saw the boy and mount fall to the ground as the bolt flashed. Teddy's brother, Patrick, 7, almost unfailingly rode with him on daily visits to their uncle's home but remained at home yesterday.

The victim is survived by his parents, two brothers and a sister.

Woman Knocked Down.

McCOOK, Neb., Aug. 29—(AP)—Mrs. Ida Moyer, McCook housewife, was knocked to the floor in her home last night and dazed but otherwise uninjured when a bolt of lightning struck the home of her daughter, Mrs. Harvey D. McCaffery. She was alone at the time. Her daughter is employed in an aircraft plant in California, and her son-in-law is in the navy. The bolt tore a hole in the roof and shattered a light switch in the house. Neighbors found Mrs. Moyer in a dazed condition.

New Rains In Northeast Send Creeks Flooding

...Limited Damage

NORFOLK, Neb., Aug. 29—(AP)—Creeks, swollen by torrential rains that fell early Saturday, overflowed their banks and flooded many acres of lowlands in northeast Nebraska, but no serious damage was reported. The rain ranged from 2 to 4 inches and covered a wide area.

Orchard reported 3.62 inches. Verdigre had 2.75 and Ewing 2.30.

Severe Lightning.

Several basements in Orchard were flooded by the deluge. The storm was accompanied by severe lightning. Two horses were killed when a bolt struck at Leonard Hall's farm northeast of Orchard

Telephone wires were knocked down in several places at Orchard. The territory surrounding that town received from 3 to 4 inches of rain.

Creeks in the Verdigre community were swollen this morning following the storm, which could be seen approaching the town during a practice blackout.

The heavy rains in the northeastern part of the state were the second series of downpours that area has received in less than two days. Much of the same territory was covered by more than two inches of rain Thursday.

VERDIGRE BLACKOUT HIGHLY SUCCESSFUL

VERDIGRE, Neb., Aug 29—(AP)—Two small dynamite charges to resemble bomb explosions, six pretended injury cases and two "fires" added realism to the practice blackout successfully staged here between 10:30 and 11 o'clock Friday night.

"The blackout was a big success and even better than we had anticipated," declared the Rev. Charles Oborny, who served as warden.

About 100 persons had special jobs to do during the blackout.

German Wedge Driven Into Steel City Defenses Partly Cut Off; One Of Bloodiest Battles In History

MOSCOW, Aug. 29—(INS)—Fighting furiously to save Stalingrad, the Russians today were said to have forced the Germans back a mile northwest of the city.

Field Marshal Semyon Timoshenko had partly cut off the spearhead which broke through the Don Elbow, the red army newspaper Red Star reported, and the battle was beginning to develop favorably for the Russians.

About 120 nazi tanks with supporting forces, it was declared in well informed sources, were striving desperately to avoid annihilation. At last reports, the soviet armies still were advancing.

The battle was one of the bloodiest of all history, military observers declared. The soviets were attacking all-out to drive back nazi tanks and troops which had penetrated defense lines in depth.

Nazi Dead Litter Steppes

(By the Associated Press.)

Russia's armies, fighting against a backdrop of their beloved "city of Stalin" in flames, beat off German assaults above and below Stalingrad today and battled desperately to wipe out a deep wedge into the city's defenses in the center.

German dead littered the steppes before soviet trenches, dispatches said, and the Russian command listed 2,800 nazis, Rumanians and Italians killed in a single sector.

German prisoners were described as hungry and almost exhausted, but nevertheless a major defense crisis was apparent.

Red Star said the Germans were having difficulty supplying their tanks with fuel. At one place, along the Don front, 700 tanks were reported halted because of a gasoline famine and Russian bombers destroyed many of them.

(The British radio said the Russians in their great counter attack on the central front had captured the Rzhev airdrome and cut an important road linking

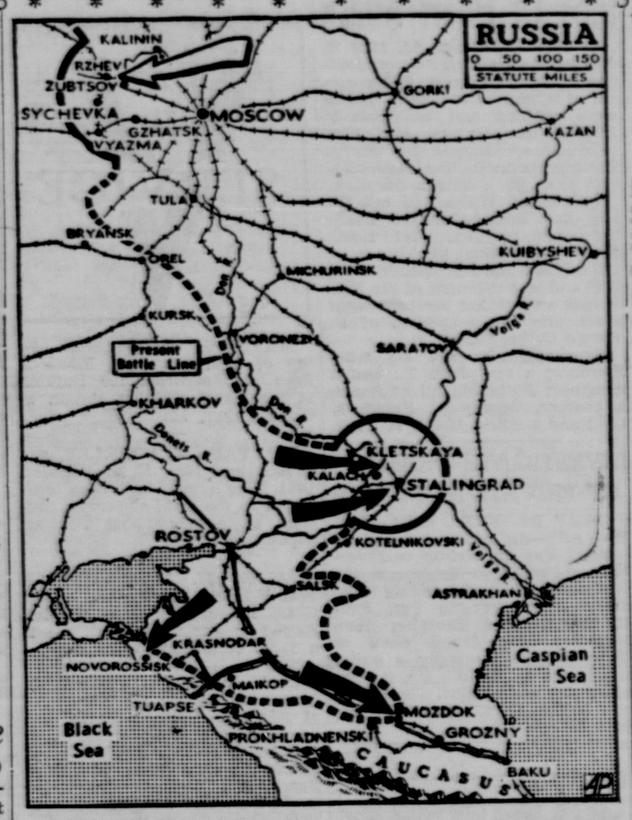
Shot Meant For Melon Thieves Fatal To Wife

LAPEER, Mich., Aug. 29—(AP)—Frank Moon, 82-year-old farmer, went out in the moonlight about midnight last night to hunt for melon thieves, heard a noise behind him, and fired the shot that killed his 71-year-old wife, he told Prosecutor T. C. Taylor today.

His wife, who went out to look for him after he had been gone several minutes, died at 6:30 a.m. today in Lapeer county hospital after making a statement that verified Moon's story.

The prosecutor said Moon was grief-stricken. A car which had driven back-and-forth in front of his house had aroused his suspicions about melon thieves, the farmer related.

Coroner Lester Smith said there would be no inquest.



RED ARMY defenders, having checked the nazi onslaught, fought desperately to hold Stalingrad (black arrows), while on the central front Stalin's men swept into the outskirts of Rzhev (open arrow) in a continuation of their counter-offensive in that sector. In the Caucasus, German tank units were attempting to break through in the Prokhladnenski and Mozdok areas. Broken line indicates the approximate present battle front.

Yankee Planes Based On Marine Held Islands Intercept Squadron Of Nip Destroyers; Sink One, Damage Two

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29—(INS)—Reporting a fresh engagement in the prolonged battle for the Solomon islands, the navy announced today that U. S. land-based patrol planes and dive bombers intercepted a squadron of Japanese destroyers two days ago and sank one large destroyer and damaged two others.

The action brought to at least 18 the number of Nipponese ships which have been sunk or damaged by U. S. forces since the fighting in the Solomons started.

In the latest fighting, the navy communique stated that the enemy squadron consisted of one small and three large Japanese destroyers.

Attack Immediately

"These ships appeared to be loaded with supplies and equipment for isolated Japanese patrols believed to be operating near the eastern end of Santa Isabel island," the navy announced.

Patrol planes based on Gaudalcanal island, which U. S. marines seized from the Japs, first intercepted the Japanese destroyers and attacked immediately, scoring one hit on a small destroyer, the navy reported.

Later, the navy continued, "Douglas" dive bombers based on the island attacked the three large destroyers, sinking one and severely damaging another.

Total Exceeds 18

The sinking and damaging of these vessels brought to more than 18 the number of Nipponese warships and auxiliary vessels sunk or damaged to date in the battle for the strategic islands.

In addition, at least 69 Japanese planes have been destroyed by American aircraft in the Solomon islands area, while American plane losses have been listed officially as only four.

American and united nations ship losses to date have been listed officially as one cruiser sunk and two cruisers, two destroyers and one transport damaged.

First Santa Isabel Mention

This was the first mention of Santa Isabel island as part of the Solomons action since the marines moved in to the Guadalcanal-Tulagi area on Aug. 7.

Santa Isabel is located only a short distance northwest of Tulagi and might be considered a threat to American positions if the Japanese were able to move in reinforcements and supplies to establish a base there.

There has been no mention of any land action on Santa Isabel, although advices from the Solomons disclosed that American marines have been in action on at least seven islands in the Tulagi area.

Smashing of the Japanese destroyers was another victory for American land-based planes on Guadalcanal, where the Japanese were completing an airport at the time the marines captured the island.

Turned Back On Aug. 24

On Aug. 24, these land-based planes turned back an enemy invasion force consisting of transports, cruisers and destroyers.

The "Douglas" dive bomber mentioned in the communique is a speedy naval plane which travels approximately 260 miles per

Japanese Beachheads are Being Bombed By American Planes

(By the Associated Press.)

Australian imperials, aided by a small force of United States service troops, sloshed through the mangrove swamps of southeast New Guinea today to combat Japanese sea-borne invaders in heavy fighting on the shores of Milne bay, 420 miles from Australia.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters said the Australians were in close contact with the enemy and indicated that the fighting was growing in intensity.

A united nations spokesman said torrential rains which hampered the early phases of the land and air battle had eased, but the troops still were fighting in heavy mud.

Many Fires Started.

Overhead, American bombers escorted by Australian fighter planes raked Japanese beachheads and a communique said "numerous fires were started."

New Police Order Salutes FOR Clients, Supers

ATTENTION!
By the numbers!
Hand salute: One—Two.

Lincoln's police department has gone military.

So if an officer accosts you on the street, or elsewhere don't be surprised if he salutes with prim, military precision, even if making an arrest. In the latter event the salute probably will not be "by the numbers."

That the hand salute will be vogue hereafter was announced at the change of shifts Friday night. Not only will an officer salute when he is addressed on the streets, but he also is to salute his ranking superiors as well, it is understood.

Who's Who, Anyway?

Now, some of the men are in a quandary. "What are we going to do if we do not know all members of the council? I only know two of them," one patrolman addmitted.

Chief Joe Carroll explained "it is only a training for new officers in the courtesies that should be observed by a police officer."

436 WAACs Commissioned In First Graduation Exercises

. . . 'Beginning Of A Magnificent War Service By Women'

Mrs. Hobby, director of the WAACs . . . her first class of 436 women receives commissions.

Gen. Uhl of Omaha . . . presents diplomas to WAACs.

FORT DES MOINES, Ia., Aug. 29—(AP)—In traditional commencement day atmosphere, augmented by the presence of many beaming parents (and a husband or two) 436 members of the first WAAC officer-candidate class were commissioned here today.

Gen. George C. Marshall, chief of staff, sent WAAC Director Oveta Culp Hobby a message welcoming the first group of officers of the women's army auxiliary corps into the army.

"Their record of the first few weeks gives me great confidence in the future of the corps and the tremendous assistance they will be to the armed forces," General Marshall said.

"Only Beginning."

"We need their enthusiasm, their talents and high purpose. This is only the beginning of a magnificent war service by the women of America," the message concluded.

Following the official commissioning ceremonies today, the "graduates' and Director Hobby were to be guests of honor at a dinner given by the Des Moines retailers' war activities committee.

Mrs. Hobby described the six-week training period of this first officer-candidate class as "a saga of women determined to pay their debt to freedom, determined to mortgage their futures and their lives if need be for the future freedom of all men and women of good will."

Becomes Third Officers.

All of the women were commissioned third officers, which is the WAAC equivalent of army second lieutenants.

"You will be soldiers. You will measure up to the honor. You have a great responsibility," declared Rep. Edith Nourse Rogers (R-Mass) in her graduation address prepared for the commissioning ceremony.

August Gas Taxes Slightly Under '41

Nebraska's gross gasoline taxes for August total $1,165,742, or only 6.6 per cent under the same month of last year, John Ainlay, state director of motor fuels, reported Saturday.

For the first eight months of this year, Nebraska's collections stand at $7,622,750, off only 5.3 per cent from last year despite the limitations of war-time driving.

Ainlay said use of automobiles and trucks at Nebraska defense projects apparently has kept gasoline consumption up in this state. Traffic studies show travel on through highways at several points off as much at 25 per cent.

Refunds to farmers under the 1941 farm tax rebate system amounted to $13,890 this month.

SGT. HARRY TULLY AVENGES DEATH OF PALS

Hastings Marine Among Heroes of Solomon Attack

(The first eye-witness story of the brilliant offensive in the Solomon islands, by an allied naval task force and American marines is told in the following dispatch by Richard Tregaskis, International News Service correspondent who accompanied the expedition. The account, delayed in transmission, was written August 12. Since that date the allied forces have extended their operations in the enemy strongholds

BY RICHARD TREGASKIS.
(International News Service Staff Correspondent.)

TULAGI, Solomon Islands, Aug. 12—(Delayed)—(INS)—The conquest of the Solomon islands by American marines will rank with the great war sagas of history.

Tough, hardened and modernly trained Americans swarmed over the beaches of Tulgai early on the morning of August 7 under cover of the guns of the allied fleet.

They met a strong and determined enemy who fought bitterly from dugouts and entrenchments.

But the conquest of the island bases today is complete except for the extermination of a handful of Japanese snipers on Tulagi.

A new crop of marine heroes, ranking with the most exalted from Tripoli to Belleau Wood, was born in the three-day, knockdown, dragout battle preceding our victory.

I visited scenes of the fiercest fighting, and talked with some of the surviving heroes.

Platoon Sgt. Harry M. Tully, of Hastings, Neb., avenged the death of several of his best friends. Coldly calculating the tactics of three Japanese who were sniping from a small aperture in a dugout, he located the range with a tracer bullet, set his sights and calmly shot them all.

Casualties on both sides were very heavy. At Gavutu, Japanese casualties were between 800 and 900. More than 300 of the enemy were killed the first day, by a tally of the bodies the next morning, and many more were buried alive when a dugout was blown up.

Jap Loss Heavy.

Marines using small boats constituted the initial assault force on Gavutu; amphibious marines were the principals in the capture of Tanambogo, and commando-trained "raider" battalions made the first landing on Tulagi.

They were supported by amphibious troops under Lieut. Col. Harold E. Rosecrans, of Washington, D. C.

Japanese forces on Tulagi were estimated at 450, all casualties.

'Liked To Hunt.'

HASTINGS, Neb., Aug. 29—(INS)—Sgt. Harry M. Tully, one of the gallant U. S. marines who wrested control of Tulagi island from the Japs, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. P. B. Tully who were overjoyed today by the news of their son's part in the engagement. The elder Tully is a veteran of the Spanish-American war.

"He always liked to hunt," Tully's father commented laconically when informed his son picked off three Jap snipers to avenge the deaths of several friends.

Williams Tells Of His Narrow Escape From Singapore

How he escaped from Singapore island just 48 hours before the causeway from the mainland was blown up to slow the Jap advance, was related by P. L. Williams, treasurer of the Far Eastern division of the Seventh-day Adventist church, before the state Adventist convention at College View Friday night.

Mr. Williams went to Singapore three months before the outbreak of the war with the Japs, and had spent more than 21 years in southern China prior to that.

From Singapore island, Mr. Williams and his companions went to Java on a small food ship which had earlier been sent to Singapore with supplies. Form Java the group traveled to Australia on a cattle boat through Sunda straits, barely escaping detection by the Japs, who had been in control of those waters for several days.

"We traveled on four different ships between the time we left Singapore and when we arrived back in this country," said Mr. Williams.

The Adventist convention closes Saturday night, after being in session at College View for the past week.

5 MONARCHS WATCH KENT LAID TO REST

...Widow Near Collapse

Royal Family and Friends Attend Ceremonies At Windsor

LONDON, Aug. 29—(INS)—With the kings of England, Norway, Greece, Yugoslavia and Queen Wilhelmina of the Netherlands in attendance, the body of the Duke of Kent was laid to rest today in historic St. George's chapel.

The Duchess of Kent, formerly Princess Marina of Greece, was near collapse at the funeral service.

The Duke of Kent, 39, was killed with 14 other persons in the crash of a giant Sunderland flying boat in Scotland Tuesday. He served as a commodore of the RAF and was on his way to Iceland on official duties.

Duchess Sobs

The duchess sobbed bitterly as she was assisted from the chapel after the ceremony, by Queen Elizabeth.

Dowager Queen Mary was visibly shaken as her youngest son was laid to rest.

The services were confined to the royal family and a few close friends. There were two simple wreaths of wild flowers, one from the king and queen and one from the Duchess of Kent.

Ceremony Moving

The ceremony was most moving. King George's eyes were filled with unshed tears as he sprinkled earth on the coffin containing the body of his brother.

The heavily veiled ladies of the royal family wept openly.

Queen Elizabeth stayed close by the side of the Duchess of Kent, comforting her. At one time the widow was unable to get to her feet as she prayed by the side of the coffin.

Crowds Throng Streets

Crowds thronged the streets of Windsor to watch the mourners walk from the station to the chapel. They came from far and wide, many of them spending the last few drops of their gasoline allotment to do so.

Military representation was confined to the duke's personal regiment. His personal servants were seated near the coffin.

The duke's three children were not present.

Permanent Deferment of Medical Students Urged

...Senator Warns of Physician Shortage

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29—(INS)—Sen. Joseph C. Rosier (D-W. Va) today called upon the selective service system to give serious consideration to permanent deferment from the draft of all medical students, if the nation's health is to be properly guarded.

"Small communities everywhere are being stripped of their physicians and surgeons," Rosier said. "The large cities are losing most of their younger and middle-aged practitioners."

No New "Crop."

Rosier, an educator for 51 years, has been on leave of absence as president of Fairmont college at Fairmont, W. Va., while serving in the senate. He also is a member of the committee on education and labor.

"If the war is long," he said, "and we draft the men of 18 and upward, we will have no new 'crop' of medical men entering pre-medical courses after this September except those few who begin at ages under 18.

"Those entering the pre-medical courses at the best or Class A schools will not complete their training before 1949 if they follow the usual seven-year course."

Rosier then explained that those in the six classes to be graduated between now and 1949 will all be young men with little experience.

"With the drain which army and navy will make upon even this supply there is certain to be a dangerous shortage of doctors," he said.

Safeguard Program.

As safeguards against a breakdown in national health during the war, Rosier said these things probably would have to be done:

1. Cut medical courses, especially pre-medical work to less than four years.
2. Establish more dispensary clinics in both large and small communities to fit their particular needs.
3. Advise the public itself on how to guard its own health, through programs of education.
4. Assign the annual "crop" of medical men by quota to certain areas, with army and navy replacements being made by careful selection.

Annual Fire Hazard Inspection Next Week

"In our business, an ounce of prevention is worth a ton of cure," Fire Chief Feaster remarked Saturday when he announced that the annual fall inspection will begin August 31 and continue through September 5.

Firemen will inspect all business establishments and buildings other than private homes for fire razards such as rubbish, defective wiring, flues and furnaces.

"It should be the duty of every home owner, the chief remarked, to see that his attic is cleared of rubbish. An incendiary bomb placed in a rubbish-clogged attic can do a lot of damage in a short time."

The annual loss by fire in the United States is aproximately $300,000,000. "This," Chief Feaster pointed out, "would buy a large supply of war implements."

State Gun Sale Slated Sept. 19

The state game commission's annual auction of confiscated guns will be held at the fair grounds holding plant Saturday, Sept. 19, Paul Gilbert, commission secretary, announced.

The commission's collection this year is less than half normal—only about 30 guns. Gilbert said officials "have no idea" what degree of demand there is for used guns this year.

FARM PRICES 163 PER CENT PRE-WAR LEVEL

...9-Point Gain In August

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29—(AP)—Farm prices today stood at 163 per cent of the pre-world war level.

The agriculture department reported that higher prices for meat animals, livestock products, tobacco and truck crops had resulted in a 9-cent increase in the general level of farm products in the month ended Aug. 15.

The increase raised the department's index 32 points above that of one year ago. All groups except cotton and cottonseed, grain, fruit and dairy products averaged above parity Aug. 15. On that date also, the prices of chickens and eggs advanced from 11 points from 145 to 156 per cent.

Maneuvers On Desert To Test New Ration K-2

WITH U. S. DESERT ARMY, NEAR INDIO, Cal., Aug. 29—(INS)—A new emergency ration, it was disclosed today, will be one of the many vitally important items checked and tested when the army's desert fighters take part in vast maneuvers they are scheduled to begin Monday on a 12,000,000-acre battlefield.

The food, known as the emergency K-2 ration, is packed in three units, one for each meal, and occupies a space only six inches long, three wide and two thick.

"The men will be given the ration to live on for six days," said Col. Donald B. Sanger, president of the desert warfare board.

"During the six days physicians will take their blood counts and give them metabolism tests, and when it's over we should know a lot more about feeding soldiers under such severe conditions as prevail in this great maneuver area."

Yank Has 4 Brothers In Nazi Army—He'd Prefer To Fight On Nip Front

DENVER, Aug. 29—(INS)—Anton Schwaerzler, 39-year-old naturalized American, was in the United States army today and, while he feels the same way about Hitler as any other American, he doesn't want to fight the Germans.

He asked officers at the Denver induction center for special consideration in his army asignment so that he might fight the Japanese rather than the nazis. He listed four good reasons—four brothers in the German army.

"Other than that I wouldn't care," he said. "I feel the same way about Hitler as any other American. But I would rather kill myself than shoot at my own brothers."

Schwaerzler explained that when the nazis overran his native Austria his brothers were drawn into the German army with other conquered subjects.

State Asks Court Dismiss Winnebago Highway Litigation

In briefs on file Saturday with the Nebraska Supreme court the attorney general asks dismissal of litigation brought by Reuben Bordy, assignee, against the state as a result of a dispute over right of way costs in connection with the construction of the Decatur-Winnebago highway ten years ago.

The District court, in the joint cases now on appeal, granted John Ydeen a judgment for $1,686 and Mrs. Grace G. Hollowell, an Indian, a judgment for $1,113, but if these are allowed to stand the way will be clear for judgments against the state of approximately $40,000 in behalf of some 30 other landholders.

The suit, authorized by the legislature, grew out of contentions of landowners, many of them Indians, that they donated land for the road with the understanding the route would follow the existing road and that Indian labor would be used extensively.

They contend the route of the road was changed and that machinery instead of Indian labor was used.

On behalf of the state, Herbert White, assistant attorney general, asserts the legislature exceeded its powers in granting permission for the suit because not all of the landowners involved were included in the authorization. He maintains, too, that there was no fraud on the part of the state in connection with the consrucion work.

Germans Claim Order Reveals Dieppe Raid Was To Be 2nd Front

...Say 600 Allies Slain

BERLIN (From German Broadcasts), Aug. 29—(AP)—The German high command claimed in a communique today that an allied operational order seized during the Aug. 19 commando raid on Dieppe, France, showed the raid was intended to be the opening of a second front in Europe.

The allied intention was shown in "operational order No. 121," the communique said. It added that there were only two copies of the order, one for each of two brigade staffs.

Merely Raid, British Say.

(Both before and during the raid on Dieppe, the British Broadcasting Corp. advised the French people that the raid was not an invasion.)

The announcement said that the Germans had taken a total of 2,195 prisoners at Dieppe and that the British had left more than 600 dead.

Additional bodies were said to be washing ashore daily.

German losses in the Dieppe operation, dead, wounded and missing, totalled 597, the high command reported. The German army lost 115 killed, the navy 78 and the airforce 104.

The German communique said the British losses in the action included 127 planes, four destroyers, two torpedo boats, one speedboat, seven transports and a number of landing boats.

North Platte Stages Successful Blackout

NORTH PLATTE, Neb., Aug. 29—(AP)—City and civilian defense officials expressed themselves today as well satisfied with the results obtained last night as North Platte became the second Nebraska city to stage a full-scale blackout. So successful was the test that any nazi or Jap bomber overhead would have had a difficult time locating this western Nebraska city of 13,000, they said.

For 30 minutes the city lay dark as the prairie lands surrounding it. Only lightning flashes outlined the city's business district at intervals. The brightest lights were the stars overhead. One minute the city was streaming with cars and pedestrians and then, at exactly 9:30 p. m., the screaming siren warned of the mock air raid. In less than a minute the only lights were those of the railroad and other essential war industries, and even these turned off every possible one.

British Subs Sink Two Axis Vessels

...3 Others Hit

LONDON, Aug. 29—(AP)—British submarines in the Mediterranean, pursuing their campaign against German and Italian shipping, have sunk a large tanker and a large supply ship and scored torpedo hits on three other supply vessels, the admiralty announced today.

Four undersea craft were cited for these new successes.

One, commanded by Com. J. W. Linton, attacked a convoy of two large supply ships escorted by three destroyers.

"Results of this attack were not observed," the admiralty said, "but it is considered both the supply ships were hit."

Incendiary Bomb Invention Shown By Lincoln Man

Tables were turned on Edwin A. Lewis of 101 West P street Friday night, while demonstrating an incendiary bomb, product of his inventive genius, at the Muny ball park before nearly 600 softball fans. The bomb, a 15-inch cardboard mailing tube with non-metal fins was timed to burn but three minutes, but for some reason or other, bewildering to the inventor, the incendiary gave off its bright blue flame for double that time.

The missle was tossed into the air and upon hitting the ground ignited with a hot blue flame, heat of which could be felt several feet away.

Lewis has a model of the bomb being examined by the war department at the present time. It is comparatively inexpensive, requiring no priorities and costing from 25 to 50 cents. Though the flame from the incendiary is small, it is capable of igniting heavy timber.

Underwriters Official Is Visitor In Lincoln

John P. Williams of Philadelphia, educational director of the Chartered Life Underwriters of America, spent Friday afternoon in Lincoln in conference with the dozen members of the group here, at the Cornhusker hotel.

The discussion centered around the responsibilities of insurance underwriters in the war effort. "You have a wide latitude of activity ahead because of the war," Mr. Williams declared. "In many ways you must replace the men who have done to war, and many of you must look ahead to joining the armed forces."

The big task of those who remain at home, the educational director pointed out, is helping arrange the affairs of others as rapidly as they are called. "You are all doing that now," he added, "but that is not enough. You must look ahead to doing more and more as the world conflict goes on."

Mr. Williams told the group of the benefits to be derived through a local unit of the C.L.U., and said organization of one probably will be accomplished in the near future.

Terrier Loses Soft Life After Judge Rules Will Of Mistress Is Improper

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 29—(INS)—Huskie, a black terrier, owner of a house and an automobile until yesterday,, was just a dog again today.

Superior Court Judge Newcomb Condee ruled that two wills under which the dog was left the property by his mistress, the late Maggie Mae White, were not properly executed and could not be admitted to probate.

Mrs. White had directed that Huskie have one house to live in and the rent from another, that he be taken for rides in the automobile and fed good food, including a chicken dinner once a week.

Under the court's ruling her $25,000 estate will be divided among heirs.

NORRIS SAYS POLL TAX IS NOT JUST

...Wants Court Test

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29—(AP)—Opponents of legislation to wipe out the poll tax as a qualification for voting were challenged today by Senator Norris to put the issue "squarely up to the United States Supreme court." The 81-year-old legislative veteran said he was "absolutely convinced" of the constitutionality of a bill to prohibit states from collecting poll taxes as a qualification to vote for national officials, but recognized "the sincerity of others holding an opposite view."

"I've always thought the tax unjust and unfair," Norris said. "I'd like to see congress pass legislation that will put the matter up to the courts."

He told an intervewer he would work with Senator Pepper (D-Fla) to obtain passage at this session of Pepper's anti-poll tax measure now pending before a judiciary subcommittee.

Senate Against Tax

Senate approval this week of legislation to exempt men and women of the armed forces from payment of poll taxes levied in eight southern states, Norris declared, "was a very good indication of what the senate will do if given an opportunity to wipe out the poll tax entirely as a qualification for voting for federal officials."

The senate amended the soldiers' absentee vote bill to exempt active service members from paying the poll tax as a qualification for voting in primaries and general elections for senator, representatives and presidential electors. The revised measure went back to the house which will consider Monday a motion to send it to a conference of senators and representatives for an attempt to adjust differences. The house bill simply waived registration by service members.

The states having poll tax qualifications are Tennessee, Arkansas, Mississippi, South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama, Texas and Virginia.

A Throne Built Of Human Bodies

THERE WAS a new awfulness to the seven days which ended Saturday. High over every battlefield in widely separated sections of the world, Mars roared with glee, and rubbed his hands as the carnage of the present conflict mounted to new peaks in a week of savage fighting. In all of the territory for which men at present are fighting there was only one "quiet spot." It was the north Egyptian desert. In Russia, and in the southwest Pacific the land and the waters shook with the explosion of bombs and the thunder of guns.

Full Harvest Moon—

HIGH IN the skies, a bright, mellow moon looked down upon the earth. It was peaceful, and in normal times reputedly it encourages a young man's fancies. But in the light of that moon thousands of young men, loving life as they do, took to the skies in roaring airplanes on the errand of killing each other, and of reducing to ruins the cities which lay below them. That is war—modern mechanized war introduced on this earth by Adolf Hitler and his gangster nazi associates.

The Gathering Storm

GERMANY NOW knows Uncle Sam is getting under full steam. She knows it because great flying fortresses have gone through their initial baptism of battle over continental Europe, and have revealed that American engineering genius in aviation has produced one of the most effective weapons of the conflict in the skies. There no longer remains any doubt about this flying fortress which Uncle Sam has introduced. It has won "its wings." It has shown a "firing power" which excels that of the bombing planes produced in Europe after more than two years of warfare.

Profited By Experience

ALL OF the whispers which got a start have been silenced. There no longer is any talk about American equipment—planes, tanks, or guns —being inferior in effectiveness to that produced in the factories under the control of Adolf Hitler. American made tanks have given the German armies all they could take, and more too. American-made planes, piloted by young, intrepid fliers, have matched strength with the best air forces under Hitler's command, and have more than held their own.

Paying the Fiddler

IT IS difficult to say whether Russia or Germany has bled more. Certainly the Russian losses are enormous. The Russian soldier fights until he drops, and when he drops the legions of Von Bock would insist he keeps on fighting unless he's drawn his last breath. It is that kind of a war in Russia—a war without quarter—a war in which the casualties far outnumber the captives—a war in which men do not surrender but die. Even more serious to Russia than a ghastly loss of men, is the loss of territory from which Russia draws her essential materials, especially oil, iron, coal, and food. Those regions of Russia through which the German armies have marched are the most productive, and the most highly developed sections of that vast country.

Land Without End

RUSSIA CAN give up land, possessing as it does a seventh of the world's land area, but Stalin cannot continue indefinitely to relinquish control of the most highly developed resources of his country—his factories, his oil fields, his oldest and most productive coal mines, and his vast and fertile farming regions. It can be said that these were destroyed under the policy of "scorched earth," and that the factories have been re-established behind the Urals, but if that is the case then Stalin and his associates have loafed on the job for twenty-five years. Either these factories were there before the war between Russia and Germany broke out, or they are not there now. No great industrial nation was built in a day.

His Treasure House

THE CHANCES are Hitler has added to his treasure house. He is likely to be in a better position for food for the people of the greater Reich in the winter which lies ahead than he was a year ago. He has legions of "forced" labor. He has all of the Ukraine which he seized a year ago, and which was Russia's breadbasket. He has the valleys of the Don, and is drawing near to the Volga, which is the most fertile area in all Russia. He has the coal of south Russia, the factories of south Russia, and while it will probably be months before he could expect to take advantage of Maikop's oil, he nevertheless has those fields.

Rains Just Ahead

THE FACT is that never will Russia's traditional September rains be more opportune than next September. The struggle for Stalingrad is mechanized warfare in its most intensified form. It involves tank "herds"—with these great lumbering machines concentrated as densely as the necessities of maneuver will permit. Overhead the skies are filled with planes. And behind the tanks are masses of mechanized infantry, seeking to exploit every advantage gained by the tanks. That is warfare which calls first for dry terrain, and it is warfare wholly unadapted to the black sticky mud of southern Russia which invariably develops during the September rains. Under those circumstances, in a race against time, the battle for Stalingrad should approach a new fury heretofore unknown to this most frightful of all wars.

Accepting His Losses

WHATEVER THE German losses may be, they reflect no weakening on the part of Hitler and his general staff. He once said he would sacrifice four million German youths for a quick decision. The Russian claim places his casualties far above that figure, but there seems to be no limit to German reserves. Before this campaign of 1942 is over Germany will have absorbed more punishment than was inflicted upon her throughout the entire war between 1914 and 1918.

Mastery Of the Air

IT IS Hitler's position at this time to face exactly the same dilemma which broke the back of the late Kaiser's armies. The German military machine is being whipped from both sides. It no longer boasts of supremacy in the skies on the western front. Long ago it lost that mastery. One by one its flourishing industrial cities are being reduced to ruins in a methodical campaign of destruction, so coolly carried forward, and so systematic, that it could not other than produce nerves among the German people. These are beautiful moonlight nights. They were made to order for the combined air forces of the united nations. But they now initiate Germany to the desolation which the Luftwaffe visited upon one country after another during Hitler's triumphant march that lasted for more than two years. Germany knows now the terror of the skies, and the frightfulness of destruction which sky warfare has made possible.

Uprooting Philosophy

FOR MORE than fifty years German youth was educated in the philosophy of war. All of her writers taught they were the superior race, which was to conquer the world, because it was tougher and harder than the rest of the world. From Neitzsche on through there was the strain which preached that weakness, physical weakness, was a sin; and toughness was a virtue .That is the hard leson which is being taken back to Germans, and in a manner, and with results never suspected by the youth of Germany who furnished the foundations for the nazi regime.

These Fateful Weeks

WITHIN THE next six weeks many of the questions bearing upon the duration of the war will have their answers. Hitler drives upon Stalingrad, the Volga, and the Russian Caucasus. That is his ordained line upon which he proposes to stand. Russia strikes back in the center to relieve the pressure. And in the far-away southwest Pacific, where the waves gleam in the moonlight, the Japanese war lords found themselves thwarted for the first time since they gave the command to make "Asia Asiatic." They were back-pedaling in China, and they missed the mark in their aim to administer the death kiss in those islands which lie to the north of Australia.

DIET AND HEALTH

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D., Author of "The Human Body"

AMAZING TRIUMPH OVER DIPHTHERIA

If anyone had told me 40 years ago that at the end of that time diphtheria would be wiped out in this country by an effort of medical science, I would have refused to believe a word of it. And if I had been further told that this was to be due to the willing cooperation of parents and children for individual vaccination by doctors, boards of health and school doctors, I would have been even more incredulous.

In looking back and thinking this over, I do not know whether to wonder at and admire more the scientific accomplishment or the fact that the public was persuaded to take advantage of it.

The scientific accomplishment is awe inspiring enough. To have taken a disease—one of the most fatal and treacherous of all human dangers, which has killed off the babies and children and youth of the world for thousands of years, for we have records of it since mankind first squatted on the banks of the Nile—and to perfect a method, itself perfectly harmless, by which the introduction of a few drops of fluid under the skin will render an infant protected from the disease for life—that indicates to me the highest form of accomplishment of the human mind.

Education Of Public.

But when I reflect back and remember all the cranks who were against "serum" and the anti-vaccinationists of 1902, and consider that by reasonable and gentle persuasion, state boards of health have convinced parents so that in some states 100 per cent of children entering school have had diphtheria prevention, I am not so sure but what that is the greater triumph.

People will swallow any kind of a witch's brew made in a dark back kitchen by an ignorant quack who has never tested it on a single case for this, that, or the other ailment, but will shy away from a product that has been the careful and patient and tested accomplishment of the most exact laboratories because it is a "serum."

I still get some letters from representatives of the dinosaurs protesting against my advocacy of diphtheria, smallpox and typhoid vaccination, but even in my short career in medical journalism they are getting fewer and farther between.

Success of Campaigns.

At any rate there is no question of the accomplishment. In some states the campaign has been so thoroughly carried out that the citizens hardly know what diphtheria is.

In my neighboring city of Kansas City, Kansas, in one of those enlightened states, there have been no deaths from diphtheria for three years. Think of that in a city of two hundred thousand population.

In Massachusetts, a state where there is much population crowding, with tenements and poverty, the actual rate of incidence of diphtheria had dropped in the 10 years between 1930 and 1940 from 101 cases per 100,000 population to 3.

But remember, diphtheria is not killed; it is only sleeping. Eternal vigilance—continued vaccination —is the price of peace.

QUESTION.

D. M. T.:—Is scabies contagious? If so, how long after being exposed do first symptoms appear, and what is the usual length of time one has this itch?

ANSWER.

Scabies is an infection of the skin by a microscopic spider-like insect. It is contagious—very. Symptoms appear as soon as the insect has burrowed into the skin of his new location—a few hours. The itch lasts forever unless you apply some sulphur ointment to kill off the invaders.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

The Gentle Art of Feeling

Through eyes and nose and ears and lips
Comes knowledge, and through finger-tips.

—Mother Coon.

Mother Coon came out of Aunt Sally's woodhouse licking her lips. She had had a good meal of bread and meat and some sweets, with a little milk to wash it all down. Although her five babies, the Quints, were big enough to follow her about she was still nursing them and needed plenty of food. Bobby Coon, father of the Quints, sighed with relief as he gave them into her care and headed straight for the woodhouse to get his share. He had just put his head in through the cathole, which was the entrance, when Jimmy Skunk came up. Jimmy stamped his front feet. Bobby Coon heard and hastily withdrew his head. Jimmy stamped again. Bobby Coon politely stepped aside, although he growled a little. Jimmy went inside. Bobby hesitated a minute then followed. A few minutes later both were eating from a dish held by Aunt Sally while she talked to them soothingly when they growled at each other.

Meanwhile Mother Coon was leading the Quints to a certain quiet, shallow pool with a muddy bottom. This was as exciting to them as the woodhouse had been and the latter promptly was forgotten. They never had seen so much water. The shore was low and wet. Mother moved slowly, cautiously, expectantly. The five little Coons behind her moved slowly, cautiously, expectantly, but they didn't know what they expected. Mother stopped. The five little Coons stopped. Mother took a cautious step, then swiftly sprang at something. Plop! Something had gone into the water, making a silvery little ring in the moonlight. It grew bigger and bigger as the Quints watched. Mother had failed to catch what she had jumped for, but she didn't seem much disappointed.

She told the Quints to watch. So the five little Coons sat in a row at the very edge of the water and watched Mother wade in. The water was very shallow there. The mud of the bottom was very soft. Whatever or whoever had plopped into the water had gone down into the soft mud and stirred it up, The water was so muddy that nothing could be seen in it.

Mother Coon didn't hurry. She

She waded in slowly until she was right in the middle of the muddy water

waded in slowly until she was right in the middle of the muddy water. Then she stopped and began to do something with her hands. The five little Coons wondered what she was doing. In that muddy water they couldn't see even in the moonlight. Neither could Mother. She didn't even try. She never looked down even once. She seemed to be looking around at nothing in particular.

Suddenly The-Smart-One knew. She was feeling for something with her hands. He remembered how he had felt for and found the piece of sugared bread just inside the woodhouse. He remembered how Mother had felt about in a pan heaped with food until she found a certain kind she wanted. She hadn't used her eyes, just her hands. When her fingers had touched what she was feeling for she had known instantly that she had found it. Now she was feeling for something in the mud. What could it be?

In a moment he found out. Mother sat up, bringing up out of the water, clutched in both hands, a Frog, the first Frog they had ever seen. She killed it. Then she washed it clean of mud and brought it ashore.

"When you are grown Frogs will always be one of your favorite foods in summer, but you will have to catch them for yourselves, and they are quick. No one will catch them for you. If you move slowly, carefully, and use your eyes, you may now and then get near enough to catch one on the shore. If you miss it will jump into the water and disappear. Then when will you do?" said Mother Coon.

"I know!" cried The-Smart-One. "I'll feel for it."

Mother looked pleased. "Just so," said she. "Each of you have eyes to see with, ears to hear with, nose to smell with, but there are times when none of these will be of use. Then your hands, if you have learned how to use them, may find for you what you cannot see, hear or smell."

At once five little Coons waded into the water and aimlessly began to feel about in the mud. Of course, they found nothing.

HANDICAP.

Tales of achievement history brings
By men courageous, grievously tasked.
Sick men have done more difficult things
Than those which of perfect health is asked.
Crippled and blinded and stricken men
Have fought to conquer, again and again.

Discouraged, disheartened, of life afraid?
Rich is he with strength for the day!
With less have fortune and fame been made.
While you can fight in the battle stay!
Broken and bruised by some grave mishap
Men have won in spite of a handicap.

Others have crueler woes endured.
Others 'gainst heavier odds have stayed.
Then why to failure by fear be lured?
Why of the outcome be so afraid?
'Tis told to us all in the book of men
The brave have triumphed, again and again.

Grain Alcohol Increase In '43 ...Chestem Says

State AAA Chairman Abner K. Chestem announced Saturday that industrial alcohol is being manufactured from grain at the rate of six million gallons a month, and that two-thirds of the nation's 1943 output will come from corn, wheat and rye.

He said he has received letters from farmers inquiring about the use of grain in industrial alcohol, and that he is giving them that reply.

Here's the outlook for 1943 as outlined by the AAA official:

Military and essential civilian demand for industrial alcohol next year is now estimated at 476 million gallons, including 200 million gallons for butadiene, used in the manufacture of synthetic rubber. U. S. production capacity is set at 530 million gallons, to which will be added imports of 10 million and a stockpile of 50 million gallons surplus from 1942.

Two-thirds of the 1943 production will come from grain. Indications are the next calendar year will see about 136 million bushels of corn, wheat and rye so used.

MRS. MURDOCK TAKES A CASE

by George Harmon Coxe

Chaper 14.
"WHERE WERE YOU?"

"You told Mr. Thorndike to pay him off," Bacon said to Hestor, "and he did, and Mr. Allen delivered them and got a receipt." He snorted softly. "Okay, Ill take that. That's a motive we can use. Before—or after—he was shot, somebody lifted that hundred grand." He shot a glance at Sergeant Keogh, who was leaning against te door-frame. "Not bad," he said, and turned again to Hestor.

"You don't seem very worried about the loss."

"I don't see how it concerns me now," she said. "The bonds were his, weren't they? I mean if you recovered them I couldn't have them, could I? Wouldn't they go in his estate?"

Bacon looked annoyed and did not bother to disguise his feelings as Hestor went on.

"Now all I have is a receipt for the bonds. I hope you find them because I hope you find out who killed him, but I don't see how it will do me any good." She twisted one hand and inspected the scarlet nails. "It's been rather a shock to me, you know. I still can't quite believe that he—that he's dead"

Her voice died away and there was a comment of silence while she regained control of it. "Neither do I quite understand your line of questioning. If I'd had any idea that such a thing was going to happen I certainly wouldn't have given him the money, would I? I could just as well have waited a day or two."

Once again, the teelphone saved Bacon a reply. He sat down and answered it, saying:

"Bacon speaking. Yes, Malloy. . . . You have, huh? . . . Good. Bring him out here. Yes, right away."

He was feeling better when he hung up. He rubbed his palms briefly, a gleam of satisfaction in his eyes.

"Mr. Thorndike . .. would you mind telling me the—ah—status of Mrs. Losado's account? That is, just what it amounts to and—"

"That's hardly a matter to discuss here," Thorndike said. "But if Mrs. Losado—"

"I don't mind at all."

Thorndike spread his hands. "Roughly it amounted to about a hundred and fifty thousand dollars."

"Before you handed out the hundred?"

"Yes."

Tough Going.

Bacon went on with some other questions and Joyce Murdock took the opportunity to study Dean Thorndike. As always he was immaculate, and had anyone been casting a movie that had to do with an investment conselor, he could have stepped right into the part just as he was.

"I see," Becon said. "And how long has Mr. Allen worked for you?"

"Why—over a year now."

"He handles investment accounts the same as you do?"

"He has two clients of his own, yes."

"That's all he does?"

Thorndike smiled and shook his head. "As a matter of fact, a good part of my business has to do with the publishing of a market letter. I originally hired Ward to help out on it. He had the sort of training I needed and it worked out all right. Since then he was able to branch out with these two accounts which he developed, but he's still my assistant on the letter."

Bacon said, "Thanks very much. . . . How well did you know Clarke, Mr. Allen?"

Joyce stole a glance at her husband, noticing that he seemed attentive but unconcerned; then looked back at Ward Allen, who tossed a cigarette into the fireplace before he replied.

"Not very well," he said.

"You knew him in South America?"

"Well—yes."

"And you knew him well enough to have an argument with him last night."

Allen studied the lieutenant a moment, his bland face grave but otherwise expressionless. "Did I?"

"You did," Bacon said. "Right here in the hall. At least that's where the argument started. After that you went into the library."

"Perhaps I did," Allen said. "I remember now. The maid was in the hall, too, wasn't she?"

Bacon eyed him disgustedly and changed his tack. "What time did you get home last night?"

"Around ten."

"Stay in, did you?"

"Yes. I read until about one and then—"

"Then how does it happen that you put your car away around eleven thirty?"

John Nason.

Something happened to Ward Allen's face, tightening it about the mouth, yet when he spoke his voice remained polite and inflexible.

"Isn't that as good a time as any, Lieutenant? I didn't put it up when I came home because I thought I might go out again. Later I remembered it and had to go down and put it away."

"How far is the garage from your place?"

"You know as well as I do," Allen said. "It's a half a block, isn't it? Perhaps a little more."

"Hardly far enough, though, to bother with the hat and topcoat you were wearing."

"Far enough when it's chilly."

"I see," Bacon said, in a tone which indicated he neither saw nor believed. "What about you, Mrs. Murdock?"

Joyce smiled at him. "You mean, where was I?" Bacon nodded and she said: "I had dinner with Kent at nine and went home a little after ten."

"And stayed there?"

"Yes."

"Miss Stewart?"

Delia exchanged quick glances with Joyce, looked up at the ceiling and spoke with studied casualness. "I was home by ten, I think. I didn't go out again."

The police stenographer was jotting all this in a notebook and when Bacon decided he had everything down he inclined his head at Hestor.

"Were you here all evening?"

"I was exhausted," Hestor said. "Some of my guests didn't leave until after nine. I went directly to my room, took a hot bath and went to bed."

Bacon asked the same question of Murdock, who grinned and said he was working, and of Thorndike, who stated that he was at his club—he wasn't sure just when he left, but the boy on the desk could tell when he was checked out.

With this there was a sound of movement in the adjoining room. Keogh craned his neck, scowled and disappeared.

"John Nason's here," he said a moment later, and, stepped aside.

The man who entered was of average height and powerfully built. His face was smooth and squarish, his eyes blue and cold and his hair was so blond one had to look closely to find the streaks of gray. His tight-fitting top-coat was still buttoned and he carried his hat in his hand.

"Sorry to be late," he said after nodding stiffly to the room at large. "And I'm afraid I can't stay long. Just what was it you wanted of me, Lieutenant?"

Bacon told him, answering with equal bluntness. "Did you know Perry Clarke?"

"No."

"What about this, then?"

The lieutenant offered a slip of paper.

Horse Meat Market

NORFOLK, Neb., Aug. 29—(AP)—Norfolk is the hub of a great livestock territory, but it is not generally known that it is also one of the horse meat procurement centers of the nation. Howard D. Shannon, Norfolk buyer for a Topeka packing firm, said approximately 2,000 horses have been purchased in this territory since Dec. 1, 1940, and shipped to Topeka, where the meat is processed for fox farms, kennels, zoos, dogs and cats.

Tin plate and terneplate production in the U. S., according to the Census, amounts to approximately 6 billion pounds, valued at nearly $300,000,000.

Sanitary Inspector Hired To Speed Up Food Registration

Lincoln's handlers of foods must be registered with the health department by the end of the coming week, Cobe S. Venner, director of public welfare and safety, announced. The registration can be delayed no longer than that, if employes in food stores and other places where food is handled or served are to be registered in time to make effective an ordinance recently passed by the city council.

In order to facilitate registration, Director Venner announced the appointment of a sanitary inspector, who will start work Tuesday. He is Eldred F. Campbell, 54, who lives at 2212 R street ,and who will receive $115 a month.

A former state food inspector, Campbell will start as soon as he takes office to "round up those who have not registered," Venner said. "The work must be completed by the end of the week."

A motion to confirm the sale was filed by Turkel on Aug. 27.

Public Would Permit Setting Aside Rules To Cut Red Tape

BY GEORGE GALLUP.
(Director, American Institute of Public Opinion.)

PRINCETON, Aug. 29—Mark Twain once said, "Everybody talks about the weather but nobody does anything about it." In Washington, everybody talks about red tape but nobody does anything about it.

But the American public, as evidence reveals today, is ready to do something about this problem which has become an increasing menace to the efficiency of the war effort.

With time considered of paramount importance in the present war situation, an increasing number of observers in Washington are critical of red tape requirements which consume the time and energy of virtually all administrators of the war effort.

These observers see the need for streamlining democracy during a period of war emergency. Laws and regulations which are necessary in time of peace as checks on individuals and departments in time of war often do no more than delay important decisions.

The question arises as to whether or not democracies can deal effectively with the problem of red tape, and this in turn depends largely upon the public's willingness to forego checks and balances which serve a purpose in peacetime.

One suggestion that has been made is to permit the government in matters of administration to take drastic action during a war emergency. This proposal would allow anyone to appear before an impartial committee which would be empowered to set aside any peacetime laws and regulations which this committee believes to be retarding the war effort.

To test the country's reaction to this proposal the following question was put in a true cross section survey of the voting population of the country:

"As long as the war lasts, would you favor, or oppose, the appointment of a committee of judges with full power to set aside any peacetime laws and regulations which they felt were slowing up the war effort?"

The results follow:

Favor	58%
Oppose	23

BRAIN TWIZZLERS

By Prof. J. D. Flint

Today we have one based on the long criticized forgetfulness of man. An outstanding example of the model husband was Jones. But, alas, Jones couldn't remember his anniversary. He arrived at his home one evening and said to his wife, "Say, dear, how long have we been married?" His wife, who used to teach school, replied "I have been married two-thirds of my life, but you, being a dozen years older, have been my husband six-elevenths of your time in this world." Jones was perplexed at having his question answered in this way but finally he figured it out. How long had they been married?

Answer To Yesterday's Twizzler.

The murdered man had disappeared thirty years before, leaving all evidence pointing toward the murderer and the innocent man had been convicted and served his sentence so when he saw his enemy after his term was up he killed him and could not be convicted of a crime he had already been punished for.

He reads every edition of every paper in every city he visits but he will penetrate territory on his trip where the dentists' copies of the Literary Digest concede Hoover's defeat.

AND DAUGHTER OUGHT TO KNOW

PONCA CITY, Okla. (AP)—Sure, Mike Landauer likes golf and plays a lot of it, but this came as a surprise to him.

The Landauers were driving some visitors around the city, pointing out places of interest.

Piped up daughter Linda, age 2½, as they passed the golf course: "That's where daddy lives."

Goebbels Goes To Town

LONDON, (INS)—Goebbels excelled himself when, according to Moscow radio, he told this one: A man was playing a piano during the Bremen 1,000-bomber raid. A bomb blew him and the piano into the street. The man was unhurt, the piano undamaged. He reseated himself (it must be assumed that the piano stool was blown into position) and played the "Horst Wessel."

Chicago Livestock.

CHICAGO, Ill., Aug. 29—(AP)—

Livestock prices were steady today, the only activity being in the hog alleys where a fair run was put over the scales at prices comparable with Friday.

Nominal top was $15 per hundredweight, same as yesterday when average price was $14.43 compared with $11.02 a year ago.

Threat of the imposition of a ceiling on livestock prices and prospects of greatly increased receipts as soon as the spring pig crop begins to move were called bearish factors by most hog dealers during the week but the market effect, if any, was minor.

Receipts expanded slightly here and at other markets.

Broad demand more than offset increased receipts in the cattle division during the week and average prices were around highs since 1937. The run included the largest proportion of steers and yearlings half to two-thirds fat so far this season. Expanded sheep receipts weakened prices in that department.

WHEAT IS HIGHER AND CORN UNEVEN

CHICAGO, Aug. 29—(AP)

Tacking on new gains of about a cent a bushel, wheat prices today reached best levels of the month as the market responded to fresh buying attributed to commercial dealers, mills and commission houses.

Although no substantial flour business could be confirmed, mills were believed to have joined in the buying which has lifted wheat more than 3 cents the past few days. Hedging sales in connection with the spring crop movement remained small since government loan rates are well above prices which producers can obtain by selling their grain. War news and belief that new price control measures will be flexible rather than rigid contributed to the better feeling, traders said.

Wheat closed ⅝@⅞ higher than yesterday, September $1.19½@⅝, December $1.23⅜@¼; corn ½c lower to ¼c higher, September 83⅝@¾, December 86⅜@½; oats unchanged to ⅛c off, soybeans ¼c own, rye, ½c higher.

—SECURITIES—

CLOSING PRICES ARE IRREGULAR

NEW YORK, Aug. 28—(AP)—

Buyers continued to nibble at favored stocks in today's market but the acquisition appetite waned appreciably.

The list generally added fractional plus signs at the start. Dealings were slack throughout and early gains were eliminated in many cases in the final hour. Closing trends were narrowly irregular. Transfers for the brief poceedings dwindled to aound 125,000 shares compared with 180.000 last Saturday.

Wall Street still viewed the war news from Russia, Europe, the Solomons and China as fairly bullish but the fact that the market in recent sessions had failed to respond with any real vigor to the improved outlook served to chill optimism to some extent. Tax relief prospects remained a bolstering influence although analysts were unwilling to make sizable bets on congressional results in this matter.

Carrier bonds improved selectively. The buoyant commodities of Friday ran into enough profit taking to halt the swing and most backed into minus territory.

Rail shares turned shaky as some customers cashed in on the lengthy upward journey of this group. In arrears the gretaer part of the time were Santa Fe, N. Y Central and Pennsylvania.

Among stocks recording new tops for the year or longer were Standard Oil of California and Postal Telegraph preferred. Aircrafts, including Douglas, Consolidate, Boeing and United made a elatively good showing. In front occasionally were Bethlehem, Consolidated Edison, Texas Co., Sears Roebuck, Anaconda, American Smelting, Union Pacific and Johns-Manville.

Motors were about unchanged. Losers at one time or another were U. S. Steel, American Telephone, International Harvester, Standard Oil (NJ), American Can, Kennecott, Phelps Dodge and Sperry.

Reich Blasted By Hundreds Bombers

works, heavy electrical equipment plants and a railway repair shop.

Saarbrucken is one of Germany's chief industrial towns and an important communications center.

Both towns have been free of the RAF wrath since November, 1940.

Saarbrucken is on the French border, 300 miles from London. Nuernberg is 200 miles to the east in the very heart of Germany.

The air ministry admitted that 30 British planes were lost, and on the basis of recent losses of between 4 and 5 per cent of the attacking force, the RAF sent at least 600 bombers against the two German strongholds.

Equals Thursday Assault

This at least matched the number estimated to have bombed the reich Thursday night when 30 bombers failed to return.

The aitack was launched while smoke still rose over Kassel and the Baltic port of Gdynia which were bombed Thursday night by rapidly as bombers, fighter-bombers and fighter planes of the RAF and the U. S. air corps strike on an around-the-clock schedule.

Friday's daylight sweeps over France were featured by another Flying Fortress raid on Meaulte where an airplane factory was blasted in a high level attack.

Swarm Over Channel

As in all previous raids carried out by the heavily-armed Fortresses, all returned safely to their bases.

American and British fighter bomber squadrons swarmed over the channel throughout the past 24 hours, smashing German air bases and shipping and industrial plants working for the German war machine.

The air ministry said the 600-plane raid on Kassel was "concentrated and effective." The town, which lies 110 miles east of blasted Cologne, is one of Germany's most important rail communication centers, linking Berlin with the manufacturing towns of the Ruhr and Rhineland districts.

Britain's biggest bombers flew the 1,800-mile round trip to pound nazi shipping at Gdnyia. The battleship Gneisenau and the uncompleted aircraft carrier Graf Zeppelin have been reported lodged at the Baltic port which the Germans considered a safe refuge.

Heavy weather interfered with the attack and the crew of one bomber reported they had to make 12 runs over the target before they were certain of the objective.

RAF losses in the Kassel and Gydnia attacks were announced as 30 bombers and two fighters.

The American fortresses were accompanied on their flight by sqaudrons of RAF fighters, American Eagle formations and American air corps pilots in Spitfires.

They met only slight opposition and this emphasized the Berlin radio announcement that the luftwaffe in western Europe "is somewhat handicapped" by the necessity of sending most of its air strength to the Russian front.

Big Rains Hampeing New Guinea Fighters

withdrawn under an attack by United States fliers.

On the China war front, Japan's invasion armies continued their mysterious withdrawal from east China provinces—evidently preparing for new military ventures elsewhere—and the Chinese said the situation in Kiangsi province already had been restored to the "a strong force" of several hundred RAF long range planes.

Tempo of the air offensive against Germany and the occupied coastal areas of western Europe is being stepped up position which prevailed before the Japs started their eastward drive.

Chinese dispatches said Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's armies had reinforced their hold on the prize "bomb Japan" airdrome at Chuhsien by occupying the walled city of Chuhsien itself and seizing Changshutan, five miles east.

The Chinese said recapture of Chuhsien, in western Chekiang province, gave Gen. Chiang's forces control of nearly 200 miles of the 450-mile Chekiang-Kiangsi railway. Only a few weeks ago the Japanese claimed they had occupied the whole rail line.

The Chinese Central News Agency said Gen. Chiang's armies had launched a vigorous new offensive against the Japanese 40 miles north of Canton as a sequel to attacks which had led to the recapture of both Chuhsien and Lishui, sites of the two biggest air fields in east China.

Front line dispatches said the Chinese already had captured four towns in three days and were hotly pursuing the Japanese.

New Solomons Battle Looms

LONDON, Aug. 29—(INS)—A renewal of the naval battle in the Solomon islands is rapidly developing, the naval correspondent of the Daily Express declared today.

The third phase of the struggle is coming to a head, he declared, as three Japanese aircraft carriers and four battleships are preparing to resume the offensive against the allied fleet and the American marine forces holding bases in the Tulagi area.

The first phase was the American occupation which was followed by the abortive enemy effort to recapture the seized bases.

Yanks Bomb Hanoi

CHUNGKING, Aug. 29—(INS)—American bombing planes made another damaging attack on the Japanese base at Hanoi, Indo-China, Friday afternoon, it was reported today in Chungking. Two oil and ammunition dumps were destroyed and a bridge and three miles of track on the railroad to Lokhai demolished, the reports said.

German positions. Fighting in Rzhev was said to be proceeding from house to house.)

"Northwest of Stalingrad, our troops repulsed several enemy tank attacks and counter attacks pressed the Germans back," said a mid-day bulletin from red army headquarters.

Nazi dive bombers showered incendiaries and high explosives in the heart of the great Volga industrial city, setting many fires, while aerial transports brought up reserves and parachute troops.

Far to the south, the Berlin radio asserted, German troops reached the Caspian sea in a 140-mile drive across the Kalmuck steppes from Elista toward the vital port of Astrakhan at the mouth of the Volga.

Nazis Claim Lineinoye

The broadcast said the Germans captured the village of Lineinoye, on a Caspian inlet, 40 miles southwest of Astrakhan.

In the western air war, Britain's campaign to scourge Germany city by city was marked by the third big assault of the week as RAF bomber squardons, perhaps 600, strong pounded the war production centers of Nuremberg deep in southern Germany and Saarbruecken on the French border.

Thirty RAF bombers failed to return, the London air ministry said.

Egyptian Front Tense

On the Egyptian front, the situation remained tense but static as Gen. Sir Harold Alexander's British imperial armies braced for an expected renewal of the desert campaign and sent night patrols to test the enemy' defenses.

"Our patrols were active over the whole front," British G. H. Q. said. "Enemy patrols and working parties were engaged and harassed."

Italian headquarters said axis forces beat off a British motorized attack at the center of the 35-mile El Alamein front, 80 miles west of Alexandria, and repulsed another thrust farther south.

In the nearby waters of the Mediterranean, British submarines striking at axis supply lines were credited with sinkinf a large tanker and a supply ship and registering torpedo hits on three other enemy vessels.

IOWAN DIES IN FLAMES OF TRUCK ACCIDENT

OMAHA, Aug. 29—Bob Wohlenhaus, Villisca, Ia., youth, died in the flames which resulted when a transport loaded with 3,600 gallons of gasoline overturned at an Omaha intersection. The flaming gasoline flowed down the gutters and sent a pall of smoke over the city. Emil Dixon, 19, of Creston, Ia., the driver, who said he cramped his wheels to avoid colliding with an automobile, was not injured.

436 WAACS Receive Their Commissions

women auxiliaries during World War I, Mrs. Rogers, who sponsored legislation creating the WAACs, cited today's ceremony as a realization of a dream of 25 years.

"Belong to America."

"You are no longer ladies of this or that town," she charged. "Your are soldiers and belong to America. Your life is yours to give to your country."

A review of most of the 1,700 WAACs now at the post preceded the commissioning, which was witnessed by WAAC Director Oveta Culp Hobby.

Maj. Gen. J. A. Ulio, adjutant general of the army, administered the oath to the new officers, while Maj. Gen. Frederick Uhl, commanding general of the Seventh service command (Omaha), handed diplomas and commissions to the women.

Two Weeks Left.

Others among the guests of honor were Gov. George A. Wilson of Iowa and Brig. Gen. Charles H. Grahl, adjutant general of Iowa.

Commissioning of the women gave them the right to wear gold shoulder bars showing their rank and entitling them to the salutes of WAAC auxiliaries as well as soldiers.

They are scheduled for another two weeks training—they began their schooling July 20—as officers before assignment to posts. Some will go into aircraft warning, 52 will go to major recruiting offices, more will remain at the school to train other classes, and some may go overseas.

The navy offered no further details on the "large scale" sea battle which began last Sunday and which was terminated two days later with undetermined results.

Most of the victories in the Solomons campaign to late have been credited to U. S. marine invaders, and land-based bombers and dive bombers.

On Aug. 20, the Japs landed an invasion force of 700 on Guadalcanal, but marines based there wiped out 670 of them and captured 30.

While conservative military and naval experts and high government officials do not consider American victories to date decisive, nevertheless American forces have won virtually every engagement since the present campaign began with the U. S. seizure of islands in the Tulagi area.

NET WIZARD FROM ECUADOR

Latest Tennis Threat

BY JERRY BRONDFIELD.

NEW YORK, Aug. 29—(AP)—Rumors are arising that Francisco (Pancho) Segura, the two-fisted Ecuadorean who is the financial needle-in-the-arm for amateur tennis this year, is not much pumpkins on grass courts, and therefore can be overlooked as a real threat in the national singles championships at Forest Hills.

Pancho Segura . . . not slipping, just over-tennised, says "coach."

The South American champion, some critics are noising it about, is okay on clay but ungood on turf, as witness his defeat in his last couple of tournaments.

However, there appears to be a good argument against this theory and it's presented by no less than the man who brought the bounding Latin to this country—Arturo Cano del Rio, tall, handsome chancellor of the Bolivian consulate in New York, and president and champion of the Hispano-American Tennis club.

Cano, who has acted as Pancho's unofficial coach, says flatly that Segura is just as good on grass as he is on clay. Pancho's recent letdown, he claims, was due to the fact that he was over-tennised.

"I noticed the symptoms after he beat Ted Schroeder for the eastern clay courts championship a few weeks ago and I told him to take a rest for a couple of weeks. I warned him if he didn't it might ruin his game.

"Pancho wanted to, but the U. S. Lawn Tennis association officials insisted that he play in other tournaments—he was such a drawing card, you know—and Pancho found it hard to refuse them.

"And so he looked bad in his next two tournaments, and people said he couldn't play on grass. But Pancho promised me he will rest for about 10 days and I expect him to be in shape for the nationals. Then you shall see."

Pancho, who entered the University of Miami, at Miami, Fla., last September to study business administration, has been one of the most colorful importations ever to hit American tennis circles.

He has beaten some top-flight tennis players in winning good-sized titles this year. He beat Billy Albert, tenth ranking nationally, for the Tri-State title at Cincinnati, and swamped Ladislav Hecht, former Czechoslovakian Davis cup star, by a remarkable 6-0, 6-0, 6-0 score in the New Jersey State final.

YANKS SLAP ON WHITEWASH—

Champs In Pennant Stride

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR.

NEW YORK, Aug. 29—(AP)—Disheartening as it may be to the Boston Red Sox, the citizens of Brooklyn and the manufacturers of medical supplies, it begins to look as if the New York Yankees will be able to finish the American league pennant race without the aid of an ambulance.

SPURGEON CHANDLER

With their injury list crowded much of the time, the Yanks have done little better than break even since the beginning of the month, winning 15 games and losing 11 for an average of .577.

But the cripples have started shedding their bandages and turning up at their regular posts, a situation that spells trouble for other clubs in the league and particularly the Red Sox, who have won 16 of their last 18 games in a desperate drive to overhaul the Yanks.

Two fugitives from a hospital bed took their places in the lineup yesterday as the Yankees applied their seventeenth whitewash job of the year, a 3-0 shutout over the crumbling Cleveland Indians.

Spud Chandler made his first start on the mound since Aug. 19, when he wrenched his back at Boston, and demonstrated that he has recovered completely.

He was touched for seven hits while registering his fourteenth triumph against four defeats and his third shutout of the year. Buddy Hassett also returned to his first-base post, enabling Utility Infielder Gerry Priddy to shift to the opposite corner and give Red Rolfe a much needed rest.

Chubby Dean, a left-hander with two previous decisions over the Yanks, matched Chandler's seven-hit job, but two of the blows were doubles by Phil Rizzuto, who tallied after each one, and another was a homer by Buddy Rosar.

EIGHT GAMES IN FRONT.

The victory kept the Yankees eight games in front of the Red Sox, who blanked the Chicago White Sox, 4-0, on the four-hit hurling of Joe Dobson.

Meanwhile, the St. Louis Browns strengthened their hold on third place by nipping the Philadelphia Athletics, 5-4, in 10 innings, and the Detroit Tigers moved to within a game and a half of fourth-place Cleveland by whipping the Washington Senators, 10-7, in 14 innings.

Glenn McQuillen started the Browns on their way to victory by tying the score with a ninth-inning home run and Walt Judnich settled the issue with a homer in the tenth.

Washington also needed a ninth-inning run to tie the score after the Tigers had tallied twice in the top half of the same frame. Three unearned runs gave Detroit the decision in the fourteenth.

DODGERS WALLOP CUBS.

In the National league, the Brooklyn Dodgers walloped the Chicago Cubs, 7-1, but watched their lead shrink to five games as the stubborn St. Louis Cardinals took both ends of a double bill from the Philadelphia Phils.

Claude Passeau went after his eighteenth pitching victory for the Cubs, but wound up with his tenth defeat. Three relievers also failed to check the Dodgers' 17-hit attack.

For seven innings, Kirby Higbe handcuffed the Bruins on four hits, but he loaded the bases in the eighth and had to have help from Hugh Casey, who pulled out with the loss of only one run.

The Cardinals, inspired by the success they enjoyed in taking three out of four games from the Dodgers, dropped the Phils twice, 7-4 and 7-5.

CARDS DOUBLE JOB.

It took a three-run triple by George Kurowscki to snap a tie and decide the opener, but the Cards put the nightcap away early, scoring all their runs in the first five frames.

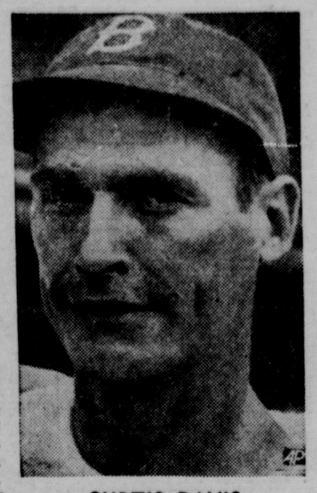
The New York Giants were kept idle by weather at Pittsburgh, but their hold on third place was strengthened when the Boston Braves knocked over Bucky Walters and the Cincinnati Reds, 4-2, in a night game.

Walters held the Braves hitless for five innings, but they routed him in the sixth when they scored all their runs with the help of three straight walks.

Man of the Week

(By International News Service.)

CURT DAVIS is lean and slow of gait and sparse of speech. But when he gets out there on the mound for the Dodgers, the Greenfield, Missouri, hard-baller is anybody's "Man Of The Week." He's that good, as he has been proving for nearly two years in Brooklyn and around the National league before that.



CURTIS DAVIS

When the Dodgers hit St. Louis this week for their four-game series with the Cardinals, the belligerent Flatbushers were riding high, wide and mighty handsome toward the pennant, boasting a seven and a half game lead over the Red Birds, but the Cards tore right into Durocher's henchmen and proceeded to win three straight games.

Desperate, with visions of having to give up all his belongings in Brooklyn because of irate fans should his team drop another contest, Durocher sent Davis to the mound. The lanky Missourian proceeded to cut down the Red Birds by a 4 to 1 score. What's more, he batted in the first two runs to bring the Dodgers out of their swirling tailspin.

STARTED AT SALT LAKE CITY.

Davis, who stands 6 feet, 2½ inches and weighs 185 pounds of bone and muscle, began his professional baseball career in 1928 at Salt Lake City. From there he went to San Francisco and then to the major leagues with Philadelphia in 1934. From the Phils he went to Chicago, then St. Louis. He was traded to Brooklyn in 1941 with Joe Medwick for Ernie Koy, Carl Doyle, Sam Nahem, Bert Haas and an estimated $100,000 in cash.

Davis' biggest year in the majors was in 1939, when he won 22 games for the Cardinals. Last season, he won 13 and lost 7 for Brooklyn and was one of Durocher's most called on pitchers down the stretch drive that led to Brooklyn's first flag in 20 years.

Davis may be from Missouri, but he shows 'em how in Brooklyn.

BOUDREAU RIDES INSIDE TRACK

Is He Tops For 1942?

BY DILLON GRAHAM.

NEW YORK, Aug. 29—(AP)—The boy who was sent on a man's job did it.

Lou Boudreau, the kid shortstop whose appointment as Cleveland manager startled baseball last winter, has made a whopping success. He got the Indians hustling, had them out front for a few furlongs and has had them in the first division all the way. His reward is a new three-year contract as pilot.

This corner thinks the 24-year-old infielder should be considered for manager-of-the-year honors. And, in some respects, he has the edge over the other two contenders, Mel Ott of the Giants and Luke Sewell of the Browns.

MEL OTT.

LOU BOUDREAU.

Sewell has taken a habitually second division club and boosted it to third place. If some of the St. Louis stars of other years were having good seasons now, the Browns might be even further up the ladder. But Sewell is a long-time veteran, who has picked up experience in both major leagues. While Boudreau hardly had earned his spurs as a sophomore shortstop before he was entrusted with the manager's portfolio, he was entrusted with the manager's portfolio.

Ott certainly has done the best job in the National league. Most of the experts figured the Giants to finish well down in the second division but, at this writing, Mel has them in third position. They seem to be a cinch for the second division and may nose the Reds out for third. But Ott, like Sewell, is a veteran. He has been around long years and has acquired the experience a manager needs.

When Boudreau took over, he found baseball's top pitcher, Bob Feller, and a crack first-baseman, Hal Trosky, gone. There is a possibility that, given Feller this year, Boudreau might have the Indians challenging the Yanks right down to the wire. In mid-August the Tribe was just 13 games behind New York and Feller personally might have taken up that slack.

Pros Take All-Stars' Measure

National League Bears Too Much For Former College Men and Win By 21 to 0.

By DAVE HOFF.

CHICAGO, Aug. 29—(AP)—Coach Bob Zuppke's dream of a glamorous ending to his long career in football evaporated like the mists that all but obscured last night's ninth annual All-Star game in Soldier Field.

His one-time pupil, George Halas, and the massive Chicago Bears machine showed the old master no mercy before a record crowd of 101,100, walloping the Stars, 21 to 0. The Bears won last year's game, 37 to 13.

The National Football league champions of 1940 and 1941, despite the departure of 10 star players for the armed forces, still have their Sid Luckman and their Gallarneau and their other gridiron demons. The fact they scored only three touchdowns last night was a tribute to the excellent conditioning of the All-Stars.

Bears Undefeated.

The Bears have now participated in four of the nine all-star contests without suffering a defeat. They were held to a scoreless tie in the 1934 series inaugural.

Those who sat in the upper regions of Soldier Field did not see a single play of the 75-yard drive that netted the Bears their third touchdown in the third period. Fog obscured the playing field from view, but the man with the microphone dutifully reported Luckman completed a 58-yard pass play to Hampton Pool and that Gallarneau galloped over from the eight-yard line to score.

Gallarneau Goes Over.

The first-period Bear touchdown was visible, as Gallarneau went over from the four-yard line to climax a 60-yard Bear power drive. The second-period touchdown was made on a 23-yard pass from Young Bussey to Pool, and that was observed by all hands, too. Joe Stydahar kicked all three conversion points.

Minnesota's Bruce Smith, probably the All-Stars' most consistent performer, directed two fierce thrusts in second period that failed for want of a punch-runner operating inside the 20-yard line. Notre Dame's Steve Juzwik drew the night's biggest cheers for a 91-yard sprint in the first period, six yards shy of creating an All-Star touchdown.

The game netted about $160,000 for army and navy relief, the biggest such fund raised in any single day sports event since Pearl Harbor.

Harmon Missing From Army All-Star Teams

WILLIAMS FIELD, Ariz., Aug. 29—(AP)—Tom Harmon, brilliant University of Michigan halfback in 1938-'40, can't make either of the Army All-Star football teams.

Because he is taking flight training at this bombing school, he's ineligible.

Shoot Title To Obscure Illinoisan

Farmer Holderman Gives Expert Gunners Lesson In Art Busting Clay Targets.

VANDALIA, O., Aug. 29—(INS)—Richer by more than $1,500 and numerous trophies, James F. Holderman, 32, of Morris, Ill., was enroute to his home today after blasting his way into the title of Grand American Handicap champion.

The new champ, who has been firing a scatter-gun at clay pigons only three years, won the title by defeating Art Finney, Mankato, Minn., 25 to 23, after they had tied at 193 in the only 200-target Grand American ever fired.

Almost 1,000 of the western hemisphere's best shooters were in the field. Holderman, who won the championship with a gun he purchased only three weeks ago, tills 600 acres of Illinois farmland.

Title to Tennessee Miss.

Copping the women's championship wa[illegible]olyn Elliott of Nash[illegible]lle, Tenn., a junior at Vanderbilt university. She defeated Mrs. Donald McClain of Atlanta, Ga., in a shootoff, 24 to 23, after they had tied at 183 out of 200. Mrs. Blanche Wolfe of Larchmont, N. Y., was third with 180.

Homer Clark of Alton, Ill., took the professional title with 184 at 22 yards, while the west team of 10 men won from the east, 8,987 to 8,940 over the 9,500 target route. Julius Petti of England, Ark., won the all-around championship with 910 of 950.

Since the manufacture of shotgun shells was halted in June, this may be the last Grand American until after the war, officials believed. More than a million targets were thrown during the week.

Indian Jack On Roster Of Pro Rams' Eleven

CLEVELAND, Aug. 29—(AP)—The Cleveland Rams' left halfback position was well fortified today with the addition of Jack Jacobs, the Indian triple-threater from the University of Oklahoma.

Jacobs signed a Rams contract last night in Chicago, where he played with the College All-Stars against the Chicago Bears.

Jacobs will be with the team when it meets the New York Giants in an exhibition at the Akron rubber bowl tomorrow, but is not expected to see action until the Clevelanders open their National league season against the Chicago Cardinals Sept. 13 at Buffalo.

The left halfback assignment was filled capably in an exhibition a week ago by Parker Hall and Gaylon Smith.

Parker Now In Line Win Net Crown

Tenniser From Far West Shows Up At Forest Hills Playing Improved Game.

FOREST HILLS, N. J., Aug. 28—(INS)—For the first time since he's been playing tournament tennis, the sport is fun to Frankie Parker, the one-time Milwaukee ball-boy who was taken in tow by Mercer Beasley.

And because it is fun, Parker today has a better chance of winning the national championship at Forest Hills than he ever had in the past, when tennis was so completely business that he earned the nickname of "Inscrutable One."

Jack Geller, the Westchester youngster who was trounced by Parker yesterday by a 6-0, 6-0, 6-0 score, is no means of providing a line on Parker's 1942 game. Dick Hart, the Miami youth who meets Frankie this afternoon, probably will provide a better tell, but there was a carefree air, a looseness in Parker's stroking, especially on that oft-publicized forehand, that made Frankie appear much more formidable than ever before on grass.

No Worry Over Forehand.

Parker himself says he has made no changes in his game.

"I haven't done a thing to my tennis," said Frankie, more expansive than ever before. "Maybe all that talk about my forehand got me into a complex about it in the old days, but not any more. I don't give a hang. I just hit the ball now. I just hit it."

Parker, seeded second in the tournament, joined the rest of the field in the second round. Ted Schroeder, top listed player, advanced the day before. Billy Talbert, seeded third, also reached the second round, beating William Tully, 6-1, 6-0, 6-2.

Three-Eye Pennant Won By Cedar Rapids

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Aug. 29—(INS)—Cedar Rapids today celebrated the winning of its third straight Three-Eye league pennant and prepared for the Shaughnessey playoff series, starting next Tuesday.

The Iowa team clinched the championship by defeating Waterloo last night while Springfield was losing to Madison. The season ends Sunday.

In the playoffs, Cedar Rapids meets Evansville and Springfield engages Madison.

New Coach In Command of Dodger Footballers

NEW YORK, Aug. 29—(INS)—With a new coach, Mike Getto, at the helm, the Brooklyn football Dodgers will make their 1942 debut in a National Professional league exhibition game with the Green Bay Packers in a tussle starting at 6:15 this evening.

Getto, chief assistant to Jock Sutherland with the Dodgers, has succeeded the latter as head coach. Sutherland has entered the army as a lieutenant commander and has given up the Dodger reins for the duration.

SOFTBALL
... LEAGUERS ...

With big John Schwindt setting the pace, whacking four doubles in five trips to the plate, Robert's mercilessly mauled a hapless Lincoln Steel ten, 15 to 4, at Muny field Friday night in the first game of a district tourney doubleheader.

The nightcap was even more one-sided. Clarence Williams of the 19th School Squadron hurler a one-hitter, while his mates harvested 14 blows off a pair of Jacobs hurlers and accounted for a 16 to 0 triumph. Jacobs didn't get a thing for four innings, but Ace Dinges doubled in the fifth to spoil the no-hitter. Harold Spadt and Jimmie White handled mound duties for the Oilers, while Harold Spadt was charged with the loss.

Friday's games eliminated Lincoln Steel and Jacobs, leaving six teams still to vie for top honors and the trip to Omaha for the state contest. The box scores:

Dark Boy Singer In Ring Win

Negro Fighter From West Coast Looms Up Now As Bidder For Angott Title.

NEW YORK, Aug. 29—(INS)—(INS)—Cleo Shans, dusky tenor singing negro from Los Angeles, was a step nearer a shot at Sammy Angott's lightweight crown today as the result of a bruising 10-round decision over Maxie Shapiro of New York's east side, last night at Madison Square Garden.

Shans, who won a similar decision over his dogged foe two weeks ago, stood off a thrilling rally by the flat-nosed east-sider to win in one of four all-star bouts put on by Promoter Mike Jacobs in an effort to make up for lack of big-name boxers.

Series of Thrillers.

As bruising and thrilling a bout as the Shans-Shapiro affair proved to be, it was no more thrill-producing for the 10,021 fans who paid $18,752 into the coffers of Promoter Jacobs than the slashing scrap between Jack LaMotta, 160, of the Bronx and Jimmy Edgar of Detroit.

Edgar, who is managed by John Roxborough, co-manager of Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis, lost the nod to LaMotta, but put up a rousing stand before doing so. Edgar weighed 149¼ pounds.

Diamonds at Ringside.

Beau Jack, who is sponsored by a group of 20 "millionaires," most of whom were at ringside in a dazzling display of diamonds and emeralds, won a decision over Billy Murray of Bellaire, Ohio. They were lightweights.

The only knockdown of the evening came in the final bout, when Carmine Fatta, 138¼ of Brooklyn, dropped Carmelo Fenoy of Spain, in the first round and then went on to win the decision.

Indiana university's famous band, "The Marching Hundred," is organizing for Army service at Gunter Field in Alabama.

Sunday Finals of Publinx Tournament

Veteran Harry Kaufman, former city and club champion, will vie with darkhorse Wilbert Everett in the 18 hole championship flight final of the Publinx golf tournament, teeing off Sunday afternoon 1:15 on the Pioneers course. Other than the Publinx final, there will be just straight-run golf out Pioneers way.

Enthusiastis at the Country club will see matches between mixed foursomes in the afternoon, with regular play topping off the day's action.

East Hills and Broadview report the same—regular play.

In Capital City ..Grid Camps..

Fundamentals monopolized most of Friday workouts in the camps of the crosstown rivals, Northeast and Lincoln high, with Coaches Bun Galloway and Ralph Beechner rapidly moulding their respective teams into shape.

The Links had a dual session, working on new plays and pass defense in the afternoon. Possibility of a scrimmage was foreseen for Saturday, provided the Oval is sufficiently dry.

Out Northeast way, the Rockets went through a conditioning course, with blocking and line charging on the drill card. Punting and passing were in line to claim the surveying eye of Galloway. Blocking and tackling are the fundamentals to be worked on Saturday and Bun said that the fellows would get "plenty of them." He won't begin teaching them plays until Monday.
